School General Data Protection Policy

Poplar Adolescent Unit collects and uses personal information about staff, pupils, parents and other individuals who come into contact with the school. This information is gathered in order to enable it to provide education and other associated functions. In addition, there may be a legal requirement to collect and use information to ensure that the school complies with its statutory obligations.

Schools have a duty to be registered, as Data Controllers, with the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) detailing the information held and its use. These details are then available on the ICO's website. Schools also have a duty to issue a Fair Processing Notice to all pupils/parents, this summarises the information held on pupils, why it is held and the other parties to whom it may be passed on.

Purpose

This policy is intended to ensure that personal information is dealt with correctly and securely and in accordance with the General Data Protection Regulations 2018, and other related legislation. It will apply to information regardless of the way it is collected, used, recorded, stored and destroyed, and irrespective of whether it is held in paper files or electronically.

All staff involved with the collection, processing and disclosure of personal data will be aware of their duties and responsibilities by adhering to these guidelines.

What is Personal Information?

Personal information or data is defined as data which relates to a living individual who can be identified from that data, or other information held.

General Data Protection Principles

- All employees must comply with the requirements of Data Protection Law and Article 8 of the Human Rights Act when processing the personal data of living individuals
- Where personal data is used we must make sure that the data subjects have access to a complete and current Privacy Notice
- We must formally assess the risk to privacy rights introduced by any new (or change to an existing) system or process which processes personal data
- We must process only the minimum amount of personal data necessary to deliver services.
- All employees who record opinions or intentions about service users must do so carefully and professionally
- We must take reasonable steps to ensure the personal data we hold is accurate, up to date and not misleading
- We must rely on consent as a condition for processing personal data only if there is no relevant legal power or other condition
- Consent must be obtained if personal data is to be used for promoting or marketing goods and services
- We will ensure that the personal data we process is reviewed and destroyed when it is no longer necessary
- If we receive a request from a member of the public or colleagues asking to access their personal data, we must handle it as a Subject Access Request.
- If we receive a request from anyone asking to access the personal data or someone other than themselves, we must fully consider Data Protection Law before disclosing it
- When someone contacts us requesting we change the way we are processing their personal data, we must consider their rights under Data Protection Law
- Employees will not access personal data they have no right to view
- Employees must follow system user guidance or other formal processes which are in place to ensure that only those with a business need to access personal data are able to do so

- Employees must share personal data with external bodies who request it only if there is a current agreement in place to do so or it is approved by the Data Protection Officer
- Where the content of telephone calls, emails, internet activity and video images of employees and the public is recorded, monitored and disclosed this must be done in compliance with the law and the regulator's Code of Practice
- All employees must be trained to an appropriate level, based on their roles and responsibilities, to be able to handle personal data securely
- When using 'data matching' techniques, this must only be done for specific purposes in line with formal codes of practice, informing service users of the details, their legal rights and getting their consent where appropriate
- The school must maintain an up to date entry in the Public Register of Data Controllers
- Where personal data needs to be anonymised or pseudonymised, for example for research purposes, we must follow the relevant procedure
- Employees must not share any personal data held by us with an individual or organisation based in any country outside of the European Economic Area

Procedures

- To comply with legislation
- To comply with Data Protection legislation which requires us to make the data subject aware of how we will handle their personal data
- To ensure that the rights of Data Subject are protected in any proposed new activity or change to an existing one
- The law states that we must only process the minimum amount of information needed to carry out our business purpose. It is not acceptable to hold information on the basis that it might possibly be useful in the future without a view of how it will be used. Changes in circumstances or failure to keep the information up to date may mean that information that was originally adequate becomes inadequate
- To maintain professional standards and to assist in defending the validity of such comments if the data subject exercises their rights to ask us to amend or delete their personal data if they feel it to be inaccurate
- To comply with a principle of Data Protection law
- To comply with Data Protection law. Where processing does not rely on a legal condition other than consent
- When using personal data for marketing and promoting services it is unlikely that any lawful condition other than consent would apply
- To comply with the right to access personal data
- To comply with the rights of the Data Subject under Data Protection law
- Personal data must be protected by effective security controls to ensure that only those with approved business needs to access the data can do so
- To comply with the legal requirements to keep personal secure but also to ensure that where there are legal grounds to share information in a managed way that this is done correctly
- The law permits organisations to hold such data in order to measure the quality of services being provided, to record consent etc. in certain circumstances recordings may be accessed e.g. to investigate alleged criminal activity or breaches of Organisation policy etc.
- This is a regulatory requirement and allows the public to see what personal information we hold to support transparency
- Where personal data is used for research purposes, the processing of the data can be legitimised by provisions within Data Protection law
- To comply with the 8th Principle of the Data Protection Act. The member states of the EEA share common legislation which provides assurance to us that personal data will be securely handled under the same provisions that exist under the Data Protection Act.

How will we do this

- By following the points in this policy

- By approving and reviewing a compliant privacy notice in line with the Privacy Notice Procedure and making it available to the data subjects
- By completing and approving a Privacy Impact Assessment, or Data Protection Impact Assessment where the processing is 'high risk' to the rights of the data subjects
- By ensuring that the means we use to gather personal data (such as forms etc) only ask for the information that is required in order to deliver the service
- By considering that anything committed to record about an individual may be accessible by that individual in the future or challenged over its accuracy
- For example, there should be at least an annual check of the currency of data held about service users and whenever contact is re-established with a service user, you should check that the information you hold about them is still correct
- By following the points in the Consent Procedure
- By following the points in the Records Management Policy. We must review personal data regularly and delete information which is no longer required; although we must take account of statutory and recommended minimum retention periods. Subject to certain conditions, the law allows us to keep indefinitely personal data processed only for historical, statistical or research purposes. The Retention Schedule will give guidance in these areas
- By following the points in the Statutory Requests for Information Policy. Such requests would typically be managed under the Freedom of Information Act (if from a member of the public) or under Data Protection or Justice Law if for a criminal investigation, however the decision whether or not to disclose someone's personal data to a third party must satisfy the requirements of the Data Protection law
- By reviewing the impact of any requested change on any statutory duty being fulfilled by the Organisation
- By being aware through training and guidance from your manager on what information is appropriate for you to access to do your job. Systems and other data storage must be designed to protect access to personal data. You must inform your manager if you have access to data which you suspect you are not entitled to view
- By ensuring appropriate security controls are in place and rules to support those controls are followed. The following should be in place:
  - Technical methods, such as encryption, password protection of systems, restricting access to network folders;
  - Physical measures, such as locking cabinets, keeping equipment like laptops out of sight, ensuring buildings are physically secure; and
  - Organisational measures, such as:
    - Providing appropriate induction and training so that staff know what is expected of them
    - Taking reasonable steps to ensure the reliability of staff that access personal data, for example, by the use of Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) checks
    - Making sure that passwords are kept secure, forced to be changed after an agreed period and are never shared
- Consult you manager, any procedure guidance or any library of sharing agreements managed by the Organisation. Consult the Data Protection Officer in one-off cases of sharing
- By ensuring that employees and members of the public are fully aware of what personal data is being recorded about them and why, and in what circumstances that data may be used. Operation of overt surveillance equipment such as CCTV must always be done in line with relevant Codes of Practice captured in the Surveillance Management Procedure. Any covert surveillance must be done in line with the provisions in the Investigatory Powers Act (2016)
- By completing compulsory training courses relevant to employee roles
- By ensuring an Impact Assessment has been approved for the activity
- The entry should be reviewed annually and an update is to be made when any change to the purposes of processing personal data occur

- Follow the guidance in the Data Minimisation Procedure
- Consult the Data Protection Officer over any proposed sharing outside of the EEA. If you are a manager who is proposing a change to or implementing a new system which may involve the hosting of personal data in a nation outside the EEA, this must be first approved by a Privacy Impact Assessment.

If you believe you have a valid business reason for an exception to these policy points, having read and understood the reasons why they are in place, please raise a formal request by contacting the Head Teacher.

Breach Statement

Breaches of Information Policies will be investigated and may result in disciplinary action. Serious breaches of Policy may be considered gross misconduct and result in dismissal without notice, or legal action being taken against you.

Complaints

Complaints will be dealt with in accordance with the school's complaints policy. Complaints relating to information handling may be referred to the Information Commissioner (the statutory regulator).
